What is the Action Plan C2 about?

The overall objective: "enhancing deployment and take up of interoperable independent living solutions based on open standards".

The specific action: "development of interoperable independent living solutions", supported by two deliverables:

1. By 2015 availability of key global standards and validated implementations of interoperable platforms, solutions and applications for independent living.
2. By 2015 availability of evidence on the return on investment of these solutions and applications, based on experience involving at least 10 major suppliers, 100 SMEs and 10,000 users. The action group has expanded ROI to include socio-economic outcomes.

Our focus: to deliver this in a way that enhances older people's quality of life, supports independent living & active ageing, boosts cost effectiveness for the health and social care sectors and promotes economic benefits.

Deliverables

1. Guidelines on how to implement innovative procurement (2013-2015) based on experiences in at least 17 regions in Europe.

2. Identification of "fit for purpose" co-operation platform (2013)

3. Recommendations for interoperability process and standardisation (2013)

4. Set of good practice documents for the implementation of independent living solutions and recommendations (2013) based on experiences in at least 17 regions.

5. Toolkit/guidance for user empowerment (2014) incorporating co-creation, awareness raising and technical confidence building.

6. European AHA cooperation platform to incorporate continuous learning (2015) on procurement and user empowerment, and open, useable platforms, a roadmap and information on training and awareness raising

7. A self-sustainable repository of information, practice and evidence (2015)

8. A report that identifies the current social and economic return on investment on existing implementations (2015)

A first step in C2

Innovative procurement has been identified as a relevant one

The participants have agreed to collaborate on this topic as to
1)promote awareness raising and a wide use of innovative public procurement for innovative services and products
2)facilitate mutual learning and sharing of practices among practitioners and interested parties

The analyses on the innovative procurement tools which are currently being used, and the lessons learned by the practitioners so far, is the first task to be performed.
